Cristian Zuzunaga is a Bristol-based artist and designer born and raised in Barcelona (b. 1978). The child of a Catalan mother and a Peruvian father, his multicultural background instilled in him a strong sense of curiosity, a desire to explore the world and look at ways in which to define it and find one's place within it.

Originally studying biology, he was fascinated by the microscope and the way in which it enables us to magnify an object and to break it down into its smallest parts. Though the biological studies did not last, the practice of magnifying did and to this day, breaking down patterns and images into their infinitesimal components remains at the core of his practice. Each pixel connects with its surroundings, just as we connect with ours.

In 2010 Cristian founded his eponymous brand Zuzunaga, designing joyful, timeless and gender neutral products that capture the dynamic nature of modern life.
